

David Hornik

Biography

For more than a decade, David has been a venture capitalist at August Capital, investing broadly in information technology companies. David focuses on enterprise application and infrastructure software, as well as consumer facing software and services. He sits on the board of such companies as StumbleUpon, Splunk, and SAY Media, and previously served on the Board of such companies as Evite (acquired by Ticketmaster) and PayCycle (acquired by Intuit).

Prior to joining August Capital, David was an intellectual property and corporate attorney at Venture Law Group and Perkins Coie in the San Francisco Bay Area, and was a litigator in New York City at Cravath, Swaine & Moore.

David has an eclectic educational background. He holds an AB in Computer Music from Stanford University, an M.Phil in Criminology from Cambridge University and a JD from Harvard Law School.

David is currently a lecturer at Stanford's Graduate School of Business, Stanford Law School, and the Harvard Law School. He is the author of VentureBlog, the first venture capital blog, and VentureCast, the first venture capital podcast, and is the founder and executive producer of The Lobby conference, an annual gathering of the thought leaders of the digital media ecosystem.