The ultimate aim of the Crossroads Program is to create a diverse pipeline of future graduate students at leading universities, such as Harvard, and future leaders from across an array of social-economic, racial, and cultural backgrounds.

Chairman, Lancet Commission on Reimagining India's Healthcare System

The Commission's primary mission is to lay out the architecture for universal health coverage for the people of India. The ongoing pandemic has laid bare structural issues in the health care system and offers a historic opportunity to reimagine its future and to galvanize action by all key stakeholders. As such, the guiding principle of the Commission is that universal health coverage can only be realized through a consultative and participatory effort by all key stakeholders across India's fragmented health system, and it aims to lay out a road-map for universal health coverage, with specific, ambitious but realistic, and time-bound recommendations for realizing a just, high-quality and accountable health care system for all Indians.
